

Assistant Course Instructor - CAS Exam 7

Fully Remote, Independent Contractor

Description

Rising Fellow is looking for an FCAS actuary to join our team as an assistant course instructor for our upcoming CAS Exam 7 Online Course. We offer our instructors flexible work, a part-time, seasonal time commitment, and competitive pay. This is a great opportunity to join a growing organization that provides best-in-class actuarial exam preparation for the upper-level CAS exams.

Rising Fellow is a collaborative, creative team of FCAS actuaries excited about helping the next generation of actuaries better prepare for the CAS exams. Our goal is to provide the highest-quality exam prep courses and study materials for the changing CAS exams to help our students pass their exams with confidence, achieve their FCAS, and enjoy great careers.

About the Position

We're looking for an Assistant Course Instructor for our CAS Exam 7 course on Advanced Estimation of Claims Liabilities. The pay we're offering is $10k for the Spring 2025 sitting. The position is:

- Fully remote, independent contractor
- Outcome-focused
- A flexible time commitment (no set hours)
- Seasonal with a busy period of January to early May for answering student questions

Responsibilities

- Answer student questions in the Exam 7 course forum in a timely manner
- Stay up-to-date on Exam 7 syllabus papers and our Exam 7 Course study materials

There may be an opportunity to expand the position in the future to include creating practice problems and updating study materials.

Requirements

- FCAS credentials
- Excellent writing skills and attention to detail
- Ability to answer exam-related questions and explain difficult concepts
- Reserving experience (preferred, not required)

Why Should You Apply?

- Competitive pay for a flexible position
- Fully remote and flexible time commitment
- Opportunity to expand the role in the future

If you enjoy problem-solving, teaching others, and are interested in staying engaged with the actuarial exams, you should apply!

How To Apply
